Ceremony sends final steel beam to its place

Well-wishers break out the 'Sharpies' and add their names & thoughts to steel beam heading to the top of the new city community center

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger

The final steel beam was ready to take its place on the new West Sacramento Community Center last Friday, so it was time for a "topping off" ceremony. Several dozen city employees, construction professionals and other people showed up for a chance to sign their names to the beam before it was lifted by crane into position.

The "topping off" ceremony was the latest celebration at a busy block, at the corner of West Capitol Avenue and Merley Avenue, across from city hall.

"It's a 21,000 square foot building that's going to include all kinds of amenities for our community," said Mayor Christopher Cabaldon. The structure will include a "black box theater, a café, senior citizens facilities and a historical display area," he said, as well as an art gallery and child development center.

Cabaldon credited one West Sacramentan who could not be at the ceremony last week: the late Juanita Lopez, who advocated for a senior center over many years before her death.

The new building is expected to open next June. Its construction constitutes a "first" for the city and city architect Randy Goodwin, said Cabaldon:

"This is also going to be the first city building to earn a 'LEED' silver standard, for creating a healthy environment."

"LEED" is the organization that has developed standards for buildings that try to be environmentally sensitive and energy-conscious. The community center will have plants on its roof, solar panels, and other energy-sensitive design features.

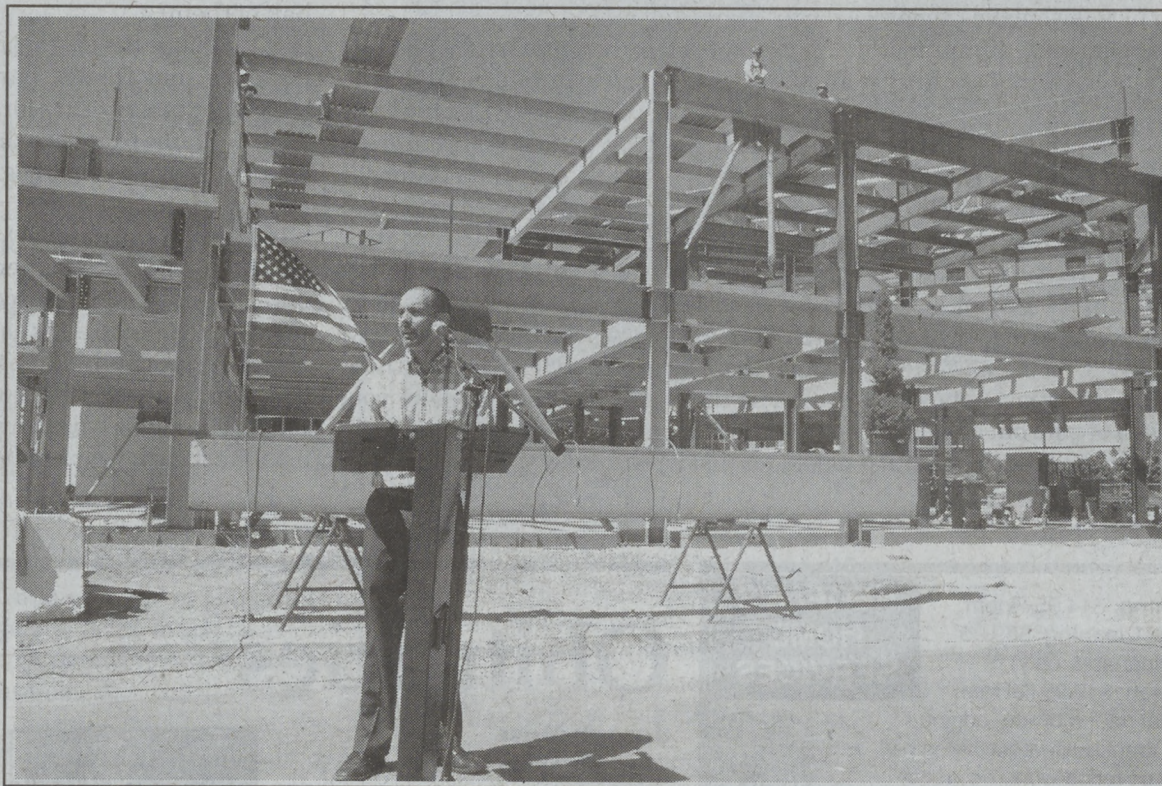

As the steel beam waited in the sun for the crowd to put down its Sharpie pens, a potted spruce sat at one end of it. One visitor — after a quick consultation with the Internet using a "smart phone," announced that this was part of a Polish tradition at a "topping off" ceremony for a new building.

And the signatures themselves?

"This is for when archaeologists, 2,000 years from now, look at this and see who made this happen," said the mayor.

The community center is taking its place next to a nearly-finished new Sacramento City College building along West Capitol. The college is slated to open for its first "pop quizzes" in January.

Behind those new facilities, along Merkle, is a new home for the Arthur F. Turner Branch of the county library, scheduled to open on Oct. 10.

The same block will also play host to a "transit transfer station" — ultimately served by a streetcar, Yolobus and possibly other forms of transit, according to plans. And the West Capitol streetscape is getting a facelift with wider sidewalks, better lighting and landscaping.

Buying 'local' will help keep neighbors employed, improve local shopping opportunities, say leaders

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

Try buying in West Sacramento first.

That's the message from a new "Shop Local" campaign being peddled by the City of West Sacramento and the local chamber of commerce. The two teamed up last week for a "shop local" press conference in front of Southport's Nugget Market.

The chamber's representation was spearheaded by its chief executive, Denice Seals, and by Eric Flick, a West Sacramento resident and owner of Grocery Outlet on Harbor Blvd. Flick spoke as both a business owner and community member.

"The more support we see from the community, the more opportunities we can provide as employers — to hire people and to give back to the community," said Flick. "We need to just get folks to think. If there's a viable option in West Sacramento, instead of going over the river or getting on the freeway, why not shop here? Why not keep the money local and see the benefits here?"

Mayor Christopher

Cabaldon said the city has a lot more retail and dining than it used to.

"We have fantastic places to get food and entertainment," he said. "So many new establishments have opened, and so many older establishments have stuck it out. It's a great opportunity to remind residents to get out and see. Try out a new restaurant every week and see where you can buy paper goods in this city. . . It's not a sacrifice, and you are helping to keep your neighbor employed."

Cabaldon said there is a lot of buzz among residents about what new businesses may or may not come to West Sacramento. There's a new Ross department store on the way, for example.

"But if you really want to get Trader Joe's into this city, the doors at the Grocery Outlet have to be backed up. If you want a movie theater in West Sacramento, go to the River Cats games and show that this is a community hungry for entertainment."

"Let businesses know 'I'm here because I want you to do well,'" added Seals, the chamber's executive.

Eric Flick of the Grocery Outlet, Denice Seals of the Chamber of Commerce, Mayor Christopher Cabaldon and City Councilman Oscar Villegas: the city and chamber are making a pitch to residents to support their local economy.

WUSD's flu plan includes 'screening,' vaccinations

West Sacramento's school district has a "pandemic plan" in case of a severe outbreak of the H1N1 ("swine") flu, it said last week.

The plan is available for public inspection at the local library, the human resources department of the Washington Unified School District, and at the WUSD web page. The plan identifies several goals, including minimizing the number of students and staff who become ill with the disease and preserving educational continuity as much as possible.

Among the concrete measures planned by WUSD:

Parents will be given H1N1 flu "screening tools" at campus back-to-school nights, and a flu shot clinic will be held in October at Riverbank Elementary School (details to be announced). The district is looking for 200 volunteers to help with the flu shot clinic. If interested, contact Janet Huntsinger, 375-7604, extension 1013.

The price of children, and a quiz for 'know-it-alls'

Note: A couple of longtime News-Ledger subscribers thought this little column could greatly benefit from passing along the following, and I agree:

The price of children:

The government recently calculated the cost of raising a child from birth to 18 years old for a middle class family in this country to be $160, 140. And that doesn't even include college tuition and books! That translates into $8,896.66 a year; $741.38 a month; $171.08 a week; $24.24 a day; and just a little over a dollar a day. But before you start wishing there was some way to get a refund, or give up on the idea of having kids if you ever want to be rich, you might want to consider some of the following:

What you get for your $160,140:
Naming rights. First, middle and last.

Unconditional love (at least when they're little).

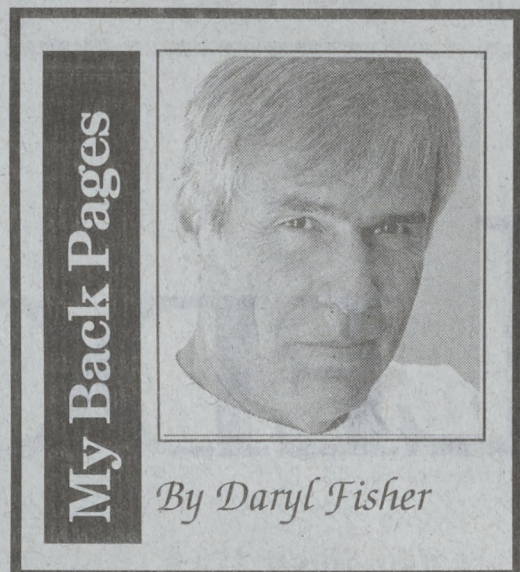

Someone to laugh yourself silly with, no matter what the boss said to you or how your stocks and bonds performed that day.

A partner for blowing bubbles, flying kites, finger-painting, carving pumpkins, playing hide-and-seek, and catching lightning bugs.

An excuse to read the Adventures of Piglet and Pooh, watch Saturday morning cartoons, go to Disneyland, and keep believing in Santa Claus.

You get to put great art on your refrigerator with magnets and receive birthday cards with backward letters on them.

You get to be a hero for just removing a splinter, getting a wad of gum out of bangs, retrieving a Frisbee off the garage roof, and coaching a baseball or soccer team that never wins.

My Back Pages

By Daryl Fisher

You get a front row seat to witness the first step, the first word, the first bra, the first date, and the first time behind the wheel.

You also get to be immortal. You get another branch added to your family tree, and if you're lucky, a long list of limbs in your obituary called grandchildren and great grandchildren. You get an education in psychology, nursing, communications, and human sexuality that no college can match. Plus in the eyes of a child, you have the power to heal a boo-böö, scare away monsters, patch a broken heart, police a slumber party, ground them forever, and love them without limits, so that one day they will, like you, love without counting the cost. That is quite a deal for just $160,140!

A quiz for "know-it-alls" (no trick questions, just straight questions with straight answers):

1. Name the one sport in which neither the spectators nor the participants know the score or the leader until the contest ends.
2. What famous North American landmark is constantly moving backward?
3. Of all the vegetables, only two can live to produce on their own for several growing seasons. All other vegetables must be replanted every year. What are the only two perennial vegetables?
4. What fruit has its seeds on the outside?
5. In many liquor stores, you can buy pear brandy, with a real pear inside the bottle. The pear is whole and ripe, and the bottle is genuine; it hasn't been cut in any way. How did the pear get inside the bottle?
6. Only three words in standard English begin with the letters "dw" and they are all common words. Name two of them.
7. There are 14 punctuation marks in English grammar. Can you name at least half of them?
8. Name the only vegetable or fruit that is never sold frozen, canned, processed, cooked, or in any other form except fresh.
9. Name 6 or more things that you can wear on your feet that begin with the letter "S".

Answers to the quiz: (1) The one sport in which neither the spectators nor the participants know the score or the leader until the contest ends is boxing. (2) The North American landmark that is always constantly moving backwards is Niagara Falls. The rim is worn down about two and a half feet each year because of the millions of gallons of water that rush over it every minute. (3) Only Asparagus and rhubarb can live to produce on their own for several growing seasons. (4) The fruit with its seeds on the outside is the strawberry. (5) The pear gets inside the brandy bottle by being grown there. The bottles are placed over the pear buds when they are small and are wired in place on the tree. The bottle is left in place for the entire growing season. When the pears are ripe, they are snipped off at the stems. (6) The three English words beginning with "dw" are dwarf, dwell and dwindle. (7) The 14 punctuation marks in English grammar are the period, comma, colon, semicolon, dash, hyphen, apostrophe, question mark, exclamation point, quotation marks, brackets, parenthesis, braces, and ellipses. (8) The only vegetable or fruit never sold frozen, canned, processed, cooked, or in any other form but fresh is lettuce. (9) And the six or more things you can wear on your feet beginning with the letter "S" are shoes, socks, sandals, sneakers, slippers, skis, skates, snowshoes, stockings, and stilts.

Go ahead, know-it-all: name the only fruit or vegetable that is sold only fresh -- never frozen, canned, processed or cooked.

With a little luck, after reading all of the above, you are now much smarter, and dying to hug your kids!

Hold on to your caps, because the San Francisco Giants are back in the National League pennant race. The Giants pulled out the broom last weekend and swept a three-game series from the Colorado Rockies to put themselves into a tie with the Rockies for the N.L. Wild Card playoff spot.

The Dodgers (78-54) are still in first place in the Western Division ahead of the Giants and Rockies but their lead has been cut to only 5 1/2 games with 31 regular season games remaining. The Giants and Rockies are now tied with a 72-59 record in the wild card race followed closely by the Braves (3); Marlins (4) and the Cubs are six games back. In the East, the Phillies (7) are good and in the Central Division, the Cardinals (10 1/2) are very comfortable so the race to watch will be in the West, with the Dodgers, Rockies and Giants going head to head down the stretch.

In the American League, New York are 6 1/2 games up on Boston in the East while the Angels (6) seem to have a lock on the West and the Detroit Tiger have a 3 1/2 game lead on Minnesota leaving the Red Sox, Rangers and the Rays battling for the Wild Card spot.

The NFL and College football season is just around the corner with four college games slated for Thursday night featuring North Carolina State against the South Carolina Gamecocks while closer to home Boise State will host Oregon on Thursday, September 3rd.

The NCAA has a full schedule of games to begin on Saturday while the NFL enters into their final week of exhibition games before the leagues opening kickoff next Thursday, September 10th with a special Thursday night game in Pittsburgh with the Super Bowl Champion Steelers hosting the Tennessee Titans (NBC-5:30 p.m.).

NFL Highlights

The 49ers pulled out a win last minute 20-13 win in Dallas and will finish up the pre-season on Friday night in San Diego (ch.13-7 p.m.) while the Silver and Black, who are still licking their wounds, after a 45-7 thrashing by the Saints, will finish up on Thursday night (ch.58-7 p.m.) in Seattle.

The Raiders home opener is the second game of a Monday night NFL doubleheader on September 14th (ESPN- 7:15 p.m.) against San Diego while the Niners open the season in on September, 13th in Arizona (ch.40-1:15 p.m.)

Diamond Notes

The Dodgers, who are starting to panic a little bit as their once comfortable 10 game lead begins to shrink, made a last minute roster move acquiring 39 year-old Jim Thome with the White Sox and right-hander Jon Garland from Arizona with both trades completed just before the deadline required for postseason eligibility.

The G-Men also made a move agreeing on a minor league contract with former Dodger starting pitcher, Brad Penny. Penny, who cleared waivers after being released by the Red Sox last week, will be called up this week and probably pitch against the Dodgers on September 13th.

River Cats

The Sacramento River Cats' dynasty continued Thursday night as they clinched another Pacific Coast League South Division Championship. The Gatos have won the title eight times in 10 years.

The River Cats will face the Pacific North Division winner, which could be Nashville or Memphis, in the first round of the playoffs, with games 1 and 2 (Sept. 9, 10) scheduled on the road and games 3, 4, and 5 set for Sept. 11, 12, and 13 at Raley Field.

River Cats outfielder Matt Carson was named the Pacific Coast League Player of the Week for August 24-30. The 28-year-old Carson went 10-for-22 during the Week, hitting 4 home runs and driving in 7 runs.

Another Cats player, Chris Carter, is powering Sacramento to another championship. The 6-foot-4, 225-pound Oakland A's prospect hit three home runs and drove in seven runs en route to a 17-6 River Cats victory over the host Reno Aces on Monday night.

Playoff tickets are available right now but in the mean time the Gatos will be on the road to play in Reno and close out the regular season in Salt Lake City.

Kings Korner

The Sacramento Kings are probably happy they decided not to select Spanish Guard Ricky Rubio with their first pick the 2009 draft because the young Spanish Guard has decided to honor his two-year contract with DKV Joventut which in turn traded his rights to Regal FC Barcelona in a deal that will prevent Rubio from joining the Minnesota Timberwolves. The Wolves selected Rubio with the 5th pick in the June draft.

The Kings, who despite having about $5 million in salary cap room, have not made any serious moves except the signing of forward Sean May on August 3rd. Training camp opens up September 29th.

Aztecs Picks

My boxer dog, Aztec, is coming back this week for another drooling, tail wagging and paw clawing college and NFL season to provide our faithful weekly subscribers with his "Picks or Licks of the Week".

Just remember is section of my column is just for fun so please don't hold us responsible for an lost wagers and remember he's only a dog, even though he is 12 years-old, Aztec is very knowledgeable in analyzing college and professional football against the odds makers spreads. My challenge is just getting him to put down on paper!

Anyway, this week Aztec will start with a test run and give you his five college "Licks of the Weeks". Aztec loves his "Fighting Irish" and really hates Wolves so take Notre Dame (-14) at home to cage University of Nevada Wolf Pack and the dog loves Bears especially Smokey so even though 21 points is too much take Cal to win and cover the points at home against Maryland.

Aztec's cousin "Uga the Bulldog" is Georgia's mascot so he's drooling all over the Bulldogs (+7) on the road at Oklahoma St and his other canine relative is at the Washington so take the Huskies (+17 1/2 points) at home against the LSU Tigers and his final pick he like the No. 2 Texas Longhorns (-40) to stampepe and trample the UL-Monroe Redhawks from Louisiana.

Are you ready for some football?

The new River City High School campus has been in use since January, and the school has played host to all kinds of sports.

Veterans post honored by headquarters

Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 8762 in West Sacramento has been honored with the designation of "All American Post," reports the VFW.

The honor "is reserved for those posts that have continually demonstrated their community support, involvement and service to veterans," said a spokesperson in a press release.

The post was founded in 1946 and this is the first time it has received the designation.

"We are proud to be an active participating organization in West Sacramento and we hope this community appreciates our efforts over the past 63 years to be a credit to the city," said Post Commander Gary Reason.

The post is located on Drever Street.

Serving West Sacramento for over 40 years!

Join volunteers both local & worldwide: help clean waterways on September 19

From the City of West Sacramento

The 2009 Coast and Creek Cleanup on Saturday, September 19th marks the 25th year of the California Coastal Cleanup Day program. The Coast and Creek Cleanup Day is sponsored by City of West Sacramento's Refuse and Recycling Division in partnership with the Port of West Sacramento and the River City Rowing Club. This event is a great way to involve families in caring for and protecting their local waterways. It is also an opportunity for students to earn community services hours by helping to cleanup trash in their local communities.

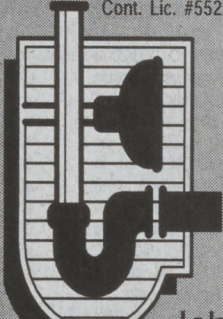

This year's event in West Sacramento will take place at the River City Rowing Club Boathouse just north of the Port of West Sacramento off of Industrial Blvd from 9:00 AM until Noon. You can pre-register to volunteer by September 11, 2009 and attend the cleanup to receive a free gift (while supplies last!). For more information, directions to the site and to pre-register please visit www.putahcreekcouncil.org or you can call 916-617-4590. The local cleanup event is part of a larger state, national, and international effort. Last year, Yolo County had a record breaking 312 volunteers that collected over 11,000 pounds of trash and 900 pounds of recycleables. Internationally, there were 400,000 volunteers that collected over 6.8 million pounds of debris. With the majority of trash coming from inland sources, your help in Yolo County is essential to not only a cleaner local waterway but also to a cleaner Delta and Ocean.

In the United States, 42 states participated and over 100 countries took part in the International Cleanup sponsored by the Ocean Conservancy, making this effort the largest marine-related volunteer event in the world. In the state of California, the Coast and Creek Cleanup is sponsored and organized by the California Coastal Commission and Whole Foods Market.

Organizers recommend that volunteers wear long pants, sunscreen, close-toed shoes, and hats and remember a water bottle. Water, gloves, and trash and recycling bags will be provided.

OPINION

News-Ledger Editorial:

An 'A' for the lack of cockroaches

The News-Ledger was on business in Woodland earlier this week, and stopped in for a coffee at a little café near Main Street. It was a cozy place, with nice people. The walls were decorated with personal photos and items. Some residential-grade slow cookers were in use behind the counter, and the whole place had a "homey" vibe to it.

A cynical diner may have wondered if everything in the establishment was "up to code."

A bulletin on the counter answered that question, sort of – it advised visitors that a copy of the most recent health department inspection was available on request. You can also find results online. But you can't easily find them as you are strolling a commercial street looking for a place to grab a quick bite.

If the café had been in Sacramento County – or any number of other California counties – a summary of the health inspection would be available even without a request, so customers could avoid the awkwardness of having to ask the person who was going to be handling their food for a copy of the health inspector's report. As you enter a Sacramento restaurant, you'll see a letter grade such as an "A" prominently displayed near the door. This gives some reassurance that the place has been inspected and has performed well.

Not so in Yolo County. Here, the inspector would rather have an establishment display a notice saying that a copy of the report was available for inspection rather than a synopsis of an actual report.

Now, the middle of this "Great Recession" is probably not the right time to change the processes used by the Yolo County Health Department and by local restaurants. Struggling government agencies and food service professionals have other problems.

But sooner or later, this county should catch up with its neighbors and do a better job posting the results of food service inspections. In the long run, it's good for the customer and good for the responsible restaurateur.

The News-Ledger has

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Swimming pool ideas

I am writing to express dissatisfaction with the leisure swim hours as they are currently setup at the West Sacramento Recreation Center. I am a stay-at-home mom who purchased a month membership at the rec center in order to take my two children swimming this summer, but was unable to use it due to the limited pool hours, currently 5-8 p.m. (and previously 3-8 p.m.) on weekdays. I have talked with other parents who agree that the hours exclude many people from going to the pool.

This schedule assumes that all kids are back in school, and that everyone has weekends free, which is not the case. People with non-school-aged kids aren't able to take advantage of the pool during non-busy times. And having the pool open mostly on weekends only leads to a very crowded pool, making it less safe for young children.

It was mentioned that perhaps the schedule is due to the fact that the rec center hires only high school students to act as lifeguards. In general I believe it's a better idea to hire college students or adults to act as lifeguards, anyway.

I have a few additional concerns as well:

The pool is scheduled to close September 7, even though we still have very hot days in September. I would like to see the pool stay open through September, and with earlier hours.

The center also randomly closes off the leisure pool to accommodate swim classes, but nowhere is it posted that the pool will be closed during swim class times. If you come for free swim during swim class times, you are

PICKS OF THE WEEK

Yeah, I'll be taking this week off from work. Three of my favorite TV shows are coming out on DVD this week, so I'll be holed-up in The Fortress of Bad Posture with crates of snack treats, fizzy fluids and my thumb on the speed-dial to my local Chinese take-out, while I endure a three-season marathon whilst strapped to a chair like Alex from "A Clockwork Orange." Set phasers on Squeee!

"The Big Bang Theory: The Complete Second Season" — The ongoing saga of TV's most hilarious geeks continues. While Season 1 devoted itself to mostly stand-alone episodes that did a great job of introducing the characters of Leonard, Sheldon, Wolowitz, Koothrappali and Penny, Season 2 devotes itself to longer, multi-episode story arcs that do an amazing job of fleshing out the characters and making them more than simply stereotypical, one-dimensional jokes.

Leonard and Penny's relationship continues to be on and off, as both of them find (and break up with) different people; Wolowitz hooks up — somehow — with Leslie Winkle; and Sheldon gets the coolest Christmas gift ever: Leonard Nimoy's DNA. The DVD set has a few extras: Commentary tracks on each episode, a gag reel and a few behind-the-scenes shorts.

"The IT Crowd: The Complete Third Season" — The Geek Train keeps a rollin' with Britain's funniest sitcom, as IT nerds Moss and Roy, along with their hapless supervisor Jen, find themselves in the most ridiculous situations imaginable. Is Jen's handyman urinating in the sink? How exactly do Roy and Moss stumble into a bank robbery caper a la

Guy Ritchie? Just who are The Lords of the Internet? And, how can you not watch a program that has such lines as, "Damn these Electric Sex Pants!"?

"It's Always Sunny in Philadelphia: Season 4" — This is the funniest, raunchiest and most politically incorrect comedy on network television. I love it more than cookies. Join the gang from Paddy's Pub as they discover the joys of cannibalism;

Time of the Rangers: Texas Rangers from 1900 to the Present by Mike Cox (Tor/Forge, $27.99)
Reviewed by Larry Cox

The Texas Rangers are the oldest law-enforcement organization on the North American continent with statewide jurisdiction. In 1821, when present-day Texas was still a Spanish province, Stephen F. Austin contracted to bring 300 families to the territory. Since there was no regular army to protect them, he formed a group he named the Rangers.

In his previous book, "Texas Rangers: Wearing the Cinco Peso 1821-1900," historian Mike Cox documented the unit's history during its first eight decades. In his sequel, Cox picks up the story of the Texas Rangers and follows the group's history through to the present.

Although sometimes accused of playing fast and loose with the rules, Cox points out that most members of the Texas Rangers were honorable men who often worked under difficult circumstances. In 1935, an enormous change occurred when the Texas Legislature created the Department of Public Safety. The Rangers and members of the Texas Highway Patrol found themselves united in the new agency with statewide law-enforcement jurisdiction. With its formation, Cox says the Rangers came close to losing their identity.

Highlights of the second volume include some of the more controversial actions of the Texas Rangers. Cox documents the Ranger-led raid of the ranch of the Polygamist Mormon sect near Eldorado during the spring of 2008, provides new details about the 1993 Waco incident that ended with the deaths of David Koresh and 80 of his followers, and explores the failed modern-day effort to negotiate a symbolic peace treaty between the Texas Rangers and the Comanche Nation.

Cox, a former spokesman for the Texas Department of Public Safety, has done a commendable job of separating the facts from the myths. His highly readable account sheds new light on the fascinating, colorful and, yes, sometimes scandalous chronicle of this remarkable organization.

- 1 (14-ounce) can bean sprouts, drained

Cover and simmer for 10 minutes. Remove from heat. Add spaghetti and mix well. Serve at once. Makes 10 (1 cup) servings.
